To Check Charges

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant was invited Thursday to look personally into charges that aid is being sent across Northern Rhodesia's border to the Congo's secessionist Katanga Province.

Thant gave no immediate indication whether he would accept the invitation to visit the area where his predecessor, Dag Hammarskjöld, was killed in a plane crash.

The invitation was extended by British Delegate Sir Patrick Dean on behalf of the Federation of Rhodesia Nyasaland prime minister, Sir Roy Welensky.

He was sworn in as secretary of the Navy by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. Looking on in McNamara's office were Korth's wife and their two children, the military high command, members of Congress and others.

Arraign Two In
Extortion Plot

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — A U.S. commissioner arraigned two Santa Ana men Thursday on charges they tried to extort $25,000 from the father and uncle of two American students imprisoned in East Germany.

FBI agents said the men demanded the money from Edgar E. Pankey for the release of Pankey's son, Victor, and his nephew, Gilbert Ferrey, both 20.

Victor Pankey and Ferrey were sentenced to two years in an East German prison last September. They were accused of trying to smuggle a girl student into West Germany in the trunk of their car.

Meany Asks Aid
To Education

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, has called for a massive federal program to eliminate all financial barriers to college education.

"We as a people need once and for all to establish it as a matter of public policy that an individual's ability must be the only ceiling of educational opportunity," he told a conference of educators and union officials Thursday.

Meany added, in a speech, that the labor movement "is unalterably committed to a massive assault on inequality of educational opportunity," including federal aid to elementary and secondary schools, a federal scholarship program, and a stepped-up program of state and federal aid to colleges and universities.

Potato Group
Extends Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national advisory committee found after two days' discussion that proposals for regulating potato production and marketing to stabilize prices and supplies have many complications.

As a consequence, the committee Thursday extended its closed sessions until Friday, when it hopes to come up with recommendations for Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Freeman appointed the committee because the potato industry this year again is troubled with surplus production and depressed grower prices. He said it is up to the industry to help develop a program for stabilizing its market.

Copyright Is Labeled Mistake

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An over-all copyright on a new book made up largely of President Kennedy's speeches and public statements was a mistake that is being corrected in future editions.

The White House made this explanation Thursday when asked about the copyright status of "To Turn the Tide" which is being published Jan. 15 by Harper & Brothers.

Reporters were told that the copyright was intended to apply only to a foreword by poet Carl Sandburg and to annotations inserted by the publishers.

Knight Aide
Resigns Post

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight's campaign manager has resigned to accept another job.

Bob Alderman, who was running the ex-governor's campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said Thursday he is taking a job "so good I just could not turn it down."

The resignation was reported by Knight's press secretary, Robert Voigt, who was named by Knight to succeed Alderman.

Katanga Secession Decision
In Hands Of Secret Groups

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP) — The Katanga Assembly handed to secret commissions Thursday the task of deciding what to do about ending the secession from the Congo.

The Assembly, convening a day late with 35 of its 72 seats filled, heard in silence an opening speech by President Moise Tshombe who bitterly assailed the Leopoldville government, the Congo's provisional constitution, and the United Nations.

He did not, in so many words, however, recommend that the Assembly reject the pact he made with Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula at Kitona on Dec. 21 to end Katanga's secession.

The Assembly had been called into session Wednesday but failed to do any business when only 19 members showed up.

Theoretically, the Assembly includes 12 appointed chiefs and 60 elected members. But at least eight seats never were filled and only nine of the 25 anti-Tshombe seat holders from the Baluba tribe showed in Elisabethville.

On the ground that greater security could be provided for Baluba as well as Tshombe deputies, Congo President Joseph Kasavubu called the Assembly to meet at Kamina, a U.N. base in north Katanga. So far there has been no word of any deputies meeting there.

After Tshombe's address, the Assembly went into secret session, and a spokesman announced later that foreign affairs and political commissions had been appointed to consider Tshombe's treaty with Adoula.

The spokesman said all 35 members attending were appointed to one or the other of the commissions, and that they would be sitting in secret for the next day or two.

In his speech, Tshombe accused the United Nations of "odious aggression" against Katanga last month when U.N. force was applied to break Katanga roadblocks and restore U.N. freedom of movement in Elisabethville. In two weeks of fighting, U.N. forces succeeded in taking all important strongpoints in the capital.

This "clumsy intervention under U.S. pressure," Tshombe said, had not helped Katanga's relations with the central government.

Report General Clay Protests
Limit On Authority In Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special representative in Berlin, is reported to have protested strongly to Secretary of State Dean Rusk against limits put on the authority of the American commander in Berlin to deal with any anti-Communist uprising by East Germans along the border.

Clay made his protest in a message to Rusk late last month, informants said. That was after Rusk had forwarded to Berlin plans agreed on by the Allies for dealing with any of various emergencies which might arise on the border.

with higher headquarters was necessary.

In Berlin a spokesman for Clay said the general issued a one-word statement, "Ridiculous," when asked about the story.

The problem posed by Clay was understood to be that even the best contingency planning could not deal with all situations which might in fact arise and the U.S. commander in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, might be confronted with the need for fast action when his instructions specified only that he should consult higher headquarters. The consultation could involve the government in Washington, North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters at Paris and U.S. European military headquarters at Heidelberg.

'Freedom Fighter' Charged
In Bomb Plot On Rep. Green

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Seconds after Massis Palouian, accused of trying to bomb a congressman's home, was praised by his wife as "a tender, loving man who would never hurt anyone," he punched a detective who testified against him Thursday.

Palouian, a 38-year-old welder and father of two children, was arrested Wednesday night and charged with placing a homemade bomb on the front lawn of Rep. William J. Green, Jr., Philadelphia's Democratic chairman, on Dec. 14.

He was arraigned Thursday before Magistrate Samuel Clark, Jr., who held the defendant on $25,000 bail for further hearing Jan. 18.

Palouian, said by police to have a history of mental illness, was charged with transporting bombs, blackmail with attempt to kill or destroy and intent to kill. He denied the charges.

Green, himself, found the bomb, which a broken fuse kept from exploding.

Palouian's 28-year-old wife, Barbara, spoke up loyally and firmly at the hearing, insisting that her husband was incapable of harming another.

Washington moved immediately for a resumption of relations with the Dominican Republic, broken since Aug. 26, 1960. U.S. officials said the steps for full restoration of relations should be completed Friday or Saturday.

Resumption of diplomatic relations also automatically channels to the Dominican Republic a sizable chunk of the U.S. sugar purchase allotment taken away from Communist-aligned Cuba but withheld also from the Dominican Republic under the sanctions.

The OAS council said the country no longer poses a threat to hemispheric peace.

Kennedy set up Sunday talks with Gen. Lucius D. Clay, his personal representative in Berlin, who has been called home for consultations, and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The McCone appointment is the only one that had been announced previously.

Salingor, questioned as to whether some international emergency had prompted Kennedy to decide to leave Palm Beach a day early, replied there had not been.

Under his revised plans, Kennedy will leave for Washington tomorrow at 4 p.m. Friday. The flight in the presidential jetliner requires about two hours.

The previous schedule called for Kennedy to remain here until Saturday afternoon, and then fly to Columbus, Ohio, to speak at dinner having the dual purpose of honoring Gov. Michael V. DiSalle on his 54th birthday, and raising money for the Democratic party.

There is no change in Kennedy's plan to attend the dinner, but he will fly to Columbus from Washington.

Salingor said Kennedy will meet with congressional leaders prior to the next Wednesday's opening of the new session. Details of the meeting with legislative leaders, including Republicans, still are being worked out, he added.

Kennedy is expected to deliver his State of the Union message next Thursday or Friday. He put in some more work on it Thursday at the oceanfront temporary White House.

Mrs. Kennedy and the two Kennedy children, Caroline, 4, and John Jr., 1, will not return to the capital with the President. Salingor said they will remain here until Wednesday. Mrs. Kennedy has been here since Dec. 18, the day she and the President returned from their Latin-American trip.

The President returned to Washington but came back the same afternoon after his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, suffered a stroke. Except for an overnight trip to Bermuda to meet British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, he has remained here since.

Salingor said the President's father is improving at the expected rate. "Marked improvement" was reported in his condition last weekend.

Financed By United States

Sweeping Reforms Planned For Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and South Viet Nam announced Thursday sweeping reforms designed to raise Vietnamese living standards and thus strengthen the people's will to resist Communist aggression.

The 11-point, joint program is seen as an answer to the frequently heard claim that Red guerrillas owe much of their success to reluctance of the South Vietnamese to fight for a regime they feel has done little for them.

U.S. officials would not disclose how much money this country will put into the drive for economic and social reforms. But it was acknowledged there would be an appreciable increase over the $136 million spent last year on economic aid for the sorely beset little Southeast Asian nation.

In making the announcement, released simultaneously here and in Saigon, the two governments said: "Increased U.S. assistance for both immediate economic and social measures and longer-range development reflects the confidence of the U.S. government in the future of free Viet Nam."

The statement said both governments "also welcome the support and assistance of other governments in carrying forward these programs."

The economic and social measures included projects in education and health, road-building, communications, and agriculture. The moves are parallel to the stepped-up military program announced last month by President

Kennedy in an exchange of letters with Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem.

"All of these steps—economic, social, military—demonstrate the desire of both the United States and Vietnamese governments to do their utmost to improve the protection and prosperity of the Vietnamese in the face of Communist guerrilla aggression and depredations directed and supported by the Communist regime in Hanoi (North Viet Nam)," the communiqué said.

Communist China already has warned that it could not stand idly by in the face of increased U.S. military assistance. New outbursts from Peking are expected to follow the latest announcement of joint U.S.-Vietnamese action.

The United States said it would furnish additional aid to help the South Viet Nam government maintain a level of "essential imports which the government of Viet Nam could not otherwise finance."

Reinstated In
OAS 'Family'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Dominican Republic was restored to good standing in the family of the Americas Thursday.

The council of the Organization of American States lifted the economic and diplomatic sanctions imposed more than a year ago during the dictatorship of Rafael L. Trujillo.

President Kennedy anticipated the action by moving to include the Dominican Republic in the Alliance for Progress program. The White House announced in Palm Beach that a U.S. mission will leave for Santo Domingo Sunday to confer with Dominican officials on the possibility of aid projects for that country.

Kennedy announced some time ago the United States would resume diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic as soon as the sanctions were lifted.

The diplomatic-economic boycott was voted in 1960 after Trujillo was implicated in a plot to assassinate President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela.

The sanctions included a break in diplomatic relations and an embargo on arms shipments to the Dominican Republic. One year ago Thursday the action was extended to include a prohibition on shipments of petroleum and petroleum products and trucks and truck parts.

Developments leading up to Thursday's 20-nation vote to remove the sanctions included the installation on New Year's Day of a new civilian council of government in the Dominican Republic. Trujillo was slain last May 30.

The OAS council said the country no longer poses a threat to hemispheric peace.

Cuba's delegate abstained from voting. He contended the present Dominican regime does not represent the island's people.

Washington moved immediately for a resumption of relations with the Dominican Republic, broken since Aug. 26, 1960. U.S. officials said the steps for full restoration of relations should be completed Friday or Saturday.

Kennedy Due To Return To White House For Meetings

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy advanced his Florida departure schedule a day to work on key phases of his legislative program.

In announcing the change in plans, Thursday press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy will confer in Washington Saturday morning with Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The committee Mills heads has jurisdiction over a wide variety of legislation, including such key-stones of the administration program as tax reform and trade policy revision, in addition to medical care.

Kennedy set up Sunday talks with Gen. Lucius D. Clay, his personal representative in Berlin, who has been called home for consultations, and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

More Die As Violence Goes
On In Algiers

ALGIERS (AP) — Continuing waves of violence between Algerians and Europeans left more than a dozen persons dead and at least 40 wounded Thursday in various parts of Algeria.

Officials in Oran counted up the day's clashes and reported a toll of nine dead, including one French soldier, and at least 28 wounded.

Both in Oran and in Algiers, the capital, authorities seemed powerless to control the outbreaks between independence-minded North Africans and European settlers determined to keep Algeria French. At least 72 persons have died in the four-day-old new year.

One of the dead in Oran was a Moslem city councillor, shot through the head at the entrance to the city hall. The killer escaped.

In another incident in Oran, a band of eight Moslems fired on a group of French troops in a cafe, killing one soldier and wounding another soldier and a police officer. The troops returned the fire, killing one of the Moslems. The others were captured.

Woman Jailed In Goldfine Case

BOSTON (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge George C. Sweeney yesterday sentenced Miss Mildred Paperman, 42, to 30 days in jail for smuggling letters to millionaire industrialist Bernard Goldfine in the Danbury, Conn., federal correctional institution.

Miss Paperman and Goldfine, whom she served as secretary for many years, admitted last Dec. 4 an illegal exchange of letters while Goldfine was serving a year's sentence for income tax evasion.

Goldfine also was scheduled to appear in court Tuesday but was granted a continuance because of illness. He is under treatment at the U.S. Public Health Hospital, Staten Island, N.Y., for a cerebral thrombosis.

that a Commonwealth contribution of $530 a student and an institutional basic fee of $200 would not balance the budget for the fiscal year 1962-63.

Gov. David L. Lawrence, in his budget message, recommended an increase of $50 per student in the Commonwealth contribution to the college.

The board said that this sum with the increase in basic fees will enable ESSC to present a balanced budget without greatly increasing educational costs to the parents of students attending the college.

The state appropriation, as recommended by the governor, will be $2,115,805. Student fees are expected to total $1,152,400.

Does Not Want To Be Mayor

WARREN, Pa. (AP) — They should have listened when the doctor said he didn't want to be mayor.

But Democrats of nearby Sugar Grove Borough slated Dr. Alfred A. Grant anyway. What's more, the reluctant candidate beat the Republican incumbent, Lawrence Schoonover, in last November's election.

Borough officials were sworn in last Tuesday night, but Dr. Grant was not among them. Following the precedent set by Gen. William T. Sherman's words in 1870 — "If nominated I will not run, if elected I will not serve" — Dr. Grant stated:

"I am not going to be mayor of Sugar Grove."

The Borough Council, wondering what to do next, has decided to seek legal advice.

AUTO ODDITIES

Strange, but true tales about automobiles of the past

In 1896, only shortly after automobiles began to move under their own power, the British built the Pennington Fighting Autocar, one of the first attempts to convert the automobile to warlike purposes. The Fighting Autocar was an armored vehicle, mounting two swiveled machine guns, front and back. Today's speedy, high-powered automobiles don't need guns mounted on them to become instruments of death and destruction. Highway and traffic accidents take a shocking toll of lives each year. To reverse this trend, everyone who drives must remember the three "C's" of safety—Courtesy, Care and Consideration. DRIVE TO STAY ALIVE.

role was never policy making.

Palmer Saw President

The coal strike which was then a matter of serious national concern is a case in point. John L. Lewis in a letter to me of September 21, 1961 recalled that he negotiated with Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer who relayed information through the President's secretary Joseph P. Tumulty and thence through Mrs. Wilson to the President.

Apparently unknown to Mr. Lewis it can now be established that Attorney General Palmer (from Stroudsburg) saw Wilson twice in person in October and November 1919.

Palmer may well have been the first person outside the President's immediate family to see the stricken president. He confided to a friend that while the President was a very sick man he found his mind active and clear.

In short the President even during the early period of his illness was in complete charge of significant policies.

In my own studies I have tried to show that the influence of Mrs. Wilson regarding the League of Nations—the all-important issue of that day—was negligible. Among the voluminous records in the Wilson Papers in the Library of Congress there is a surviving document written in President Wilson's own shorthand filed under the date December 22, 1919. With the help of Monroe County Judge Fred W. Davis and his court reporter James Shaw, I was able to decipher Wilson's shorthand sufficiently to become convinced that Wilson's recovery was faster than is commonly assumed.

Whether one agrees with the policies of this document is here not important. It establishes that the President himself was in command of the policies of the Wilson administration during this time.

Mrs. Wilson undoubtedly gave her husband every possible assistance during his illness, but the decisions regarding the strategy and tactics involving the treaty were Wilson's.

These conclusions were confirmed by Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, President Wilson's only surviving daughter who wrote two years ago: "The rumors that started about Mrs. Wilson running the nation were utterly absurd . . . the decisions were my father's not hers (Mrs. Wilson)".

Mrs. McAdoo's accounts have frequently not been credited because of her close personal ties. Still the policies of the Wilson administration during this period prove conclusively that they were masterminded by President Wilson and no one else.

Incidentally the nature of these policies are outlined in my paper entitled "Woodrow Wilson's Plan for a Vote of Confidence" which has appeared in the July 1961 issue of Pennsylvania History.

Granted Permission I might add that I had a number of communications with Mrs. Wilson. She graciously permitted me to examine Woodrow Wilson's personal letters and correspondence — some 1200 boxes — now deposited in the Library of Congress. At a time when direct replies to questions proved difficult I was able to get her views through Mr. Fred W. Kegley of 1812 N. 5th Street, Stroudsburg, who like Mrs. Wilson is a native of Wytheville, Virginia.

In more recent times direct contact with Mrs. Wilson was easier. A letter of November 27, 1960, is in her own handwriting due to the absence of her secretary. It dealt with President Wilson's diplomacy in Paris. A personal interview was pending in December but fate intervened.

Lawrence explained at his weekly news conference that implementation of the program was delayed to prevent a deficit in the public welfare budget.

Ray Roberts Red Cross Drive Head

RAYMOND Roberts was named as 1962 Red Cross Fund Campaign chairman and was introduced to members of the board and executive committee at the meeting last night at Red Cross Headquarters.

The meeting also marked the resignation of Mrs. Walter Dreher as chairman of volunteer services, a post in which she has served for many years. She and Mrs. LeRoy J. Koehler, first chairman, are the only two who have served since the chapter was organized. The board voted their appreciation for her faithful service.

Named as new chairman of volunteer services was Mrs. H. Jack LaBar who has been vice chairman.

In her final report, Mrs. Dreher announced that 101 volunteers had given 1,030 hours of service during the past month.

Joseph De Renzis, blood donor chairman, reported that the 123 pints of blood donated at the December 27 meeting had given the program a boost, thanking those who contributed. The next bloodmobile visit will be Jan. 9 and 10 at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

Dutch Treat Hears Talk On Obsolescence

"OBsolescence in humans begins when reminiscence becomes more important than looking forward to something new," John Bickel told members of the Dutch Treat Club at their meeting last night.

However this is not a fair sample of his talk since his bits of wisdom were sandwiched in between hilarious stories drawn from his own experience in business (he recently retired as vice president of Carrier Corp.) and with his family and friends.

That wisdom was also mixed in with such items as "Retirement is a hazardous business; more people die in it than any other time of life," "If you're not getting any fun out of your job, change it; and the same applies to retirement;" illustrating that he could follow his title, "Let's Live and Have Fun."

Pointing out that 25 years after eight of the most successful financiers met in Chicago in 1923, all eight of them were suicides, in prison, insane or in disgrace, he said: "The time to make friends is before you need them. A man who has one friend is never unimportant; a man with two is lucky and a man with three is rich."

Bickel, who is a brother of Frederic March, was introduced by Gilbert Dunning, Dutch Treat president, who pointed out that unless the club gained more members, more money, or a lot of guest fees at the February meeting, that meeting might be the last of the season.

He appealed for ideas from members. Dunning also announced the Tulsa Choir's memorial concert for Tom Waring to be held Jan. 28.

Introduced as new members were Mr. and Mrs. Hal Bates of Mount Pocono.

Hearing Opens On Bus Service

A PENNSYLVANIA Public Utility Commission examiner opened a hearing in Monroe County Courthouse Wednesday on an application by Delaware Valley Transportation Co., Stroudsburg, to establish round trip bus schedules between East Stroudsburg and Allentown.

Leslie Drake, owner and operator of the company, and one other witness testified. Walter W. O'Hara, PUC examiner, will continue the hearing at a date to be set.

Drake said buses would stop in Portland, Mt. Bethel, Pen Argyl and Bangor on two round trips daily. J. Joseph McCluskey, Drake's attorney, said about 40 more witnesses will be called to testify to the need for such service.

Opposition is expected from existing bus lines.

Fallout Shelter Program Outlined

MONROE County Civil Defense stepped up its county-wide public shelter program at a meeting last night at the courthouse in Stroudsburg.

Dr. James Reed, program supervisor, outlined the plan to more than 30 individuals, including representatives on the county, borough and township levels.

Reed, of East Stroudsburg State College, told the group that the program is progressing in all parts of the county and that the once lackadaisical attitude of the public is changing.

He said that a survey of prospective county shelter sites is tentatively slated to start around March 1. It is expected that the survey would be completed about Dec. 1.

Protective Factor 20 & 100
He urged CD officials on all levels to search out buildings that have "a protective factor of 20." This, he noted will be the minimum.

However, Reed pointed out, the federal overseers actually are looking for "a protective factor of 100" as first picks for public fallout shelters.

Reed emphasized that a workable plan between the Public Works Division of the U. S. Navy and the surveying contractor has been established and that the company looking for sites, "know what they want in regards to a strongly constructed building."

The ESSC professor said buildings selected would be on a three-way agreement with the federal and local governments and the owner of the property. He said the contract can be terminated at any time.

Reed informed the gathering that when the survey team starts its move through the county it will be "only a one shot affair." He said the survey group would take the applications and then go to the prospective site and evaluate its usefulness as a shelter during an all-out nuclear war. After that they would make their recommendations and the next process would be the stockpiling of the shelter for the inhabitants.

Urges Education
Marvin E. Abel, county Civil Defense director, urged officials on all levels to educate the people in their territories. He reported that many persons are misinformed on CD and its workings.

Abel listed the new chain of command in the recently adopted organizational plan which was motivated by the Defense Department's edict on pin-pointing funds directly to civil defense projects instead of strictly for the use of outside organizations and CD.

The new plan will enable Monroe to secure federal funds for needed equipment and also to be listed on the preferred surplus. Officials must endorse the plan before it gets the sanction of the federal government.

Jack Anderson, director of Civil Defense for the Eastern District, urged area officials to search out at least 50 cities to be used as public shelters. He said Monroe has at least 100 that could be put to use.

Anderson pointed out that many industries, hotels and other resort buildings are likely prospects for public shelters. He explained that industry should go along with the plan as workers would have a shelter right in their plant.

On or before May 1, 1966, the school will file an interim report on changes and conditions. Such an interim report usually is followed by another five years of accredited status, Munson stated. This is the maximum period of accreditation allowed.

Self-Evaluation
Accreditation in the Middle States Association is maintained only by periodic searching self-evaluation on the part of a school followed by a three-day visit of a committee of administrators and teachers.

This committee examines the school's self-evaluation from every conceivable point of view and through its chairman files a detailed statement with the Commission in Secondary Schools. Stroud Union High School conducted its self-evaluation beginning in the spring of 1960 and continuing through the school year 1960-1961.

A visiting committee examined the high school on March 6-8, 1961, with the committee chairman, Robert Amsden, principal of Columbia High School, Maplewood, N. J. filing the report on the high school with the Commission on Secondary Schools.

Before school resumed in September, 1961, it was necessary for the high school through its principal to make a detailed statement to the Commission, relating to the report of the visiting committee and indicating changes that would be made immediately, changes that would be made in the near future, and changes that would take long range planning.

The last step in this procedure was taken when, during the Thanksgiving holiday, a committee of the Middle States Association, which holds its annual meeting in Atlantic City, considered the Stroud Union reports, along with those of the secondary schools which were candidates for new or renewed accreditation. As a result of this committee's investigation, Stroud Union High School maintains its favorable accreditation status.

"Congratulations"
Dr. Mathews, in his letter to the high school, states in part, "It is a pleasure to inform you that the Commission on Secondary Schools of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has approved the continuance of your school on the List of Accredited Secondary Schools for the period ending December 31, 1966 . . ."

"Please accept sincere congratulations on this occasion. We, in the Commission office, are happy to be of service to you and your school whenever an opportunity is presented."

Why Tinker?

Having recognized that our hodge-podge tax system, the product of years of emergency actions and political expediencies, is a major barrier to full economic growth and high employment, Washington is considering remedies.

So far, most of the proposals advanced would lead only to timid steps, shuffling small amounts of tax revenues from one area to another through changing exemptions and deductions. Whether these minor proposals are sound or unsound, they remain minor—far from sufficient to raze the tax barrier to growth, and at the same time leaving the Government's growing revenue problems unsolved.

There is even some talk from both parties about the possibility of a tax rate increase. If present tax rates inhibit growth, such an increase might even lead to less revenue for the Treasury as business activity might well fall.

So there isn't much hope in small amounts of tax tinkering. It is time Congress and the Administration faced the whole problem. Delay simply will mean more growth lost.

In the House Ways and Means Committee are two identical bills, known as the Herlong-Baker income tax rate reform proposal. Here is the only comprehensive solution at hand, and it has had many months of examination by experts inside and outside Washington. It has withstood every scrutiny, and has gained supporters as fast as authorities and businessmen have become acquainted with it.

This legislation would reduce all income tax rates, top to bottom, in five annual steps, and also treat the problem of realistic depreciation allowances. Individuals and corporations then would have more money for investment, and investment is the recognized key to both economic growth and more jobs.

Past experience, here and abroad, shows that the Government would experience a slight initial loss in tax receipts, followed by a steep climb to new heights which would result from the accelerated growth.

The Ways and Means Committee should report this bill out this session, and give the Congress a chance to become familiar with it and vote on it. No piece of domestic legislation is so vital now.

Too Many Agencies

A lot of things do happen to amuse and entertain and no matter how serious the subject, a good joke can be found among the answers to the original question.

The Supreme Court of the state has just announced something that everybody but the state legislature has known for years, namely that never has a good law been enacted for legislators have a habit of sticking jokers into each bill, and the laws, when written, have a lot of points that just don't get a good interpretation. Most laws are for the lawyers to untangle and find wrong.

Now that state government includes so many agencies that regulate things, including the faulty legislative bills, the Supreme Court finds these agencies called "the fourth branch of government," all added to the executive, the legislative and the judicial.

The agencies of the state government are more powerful than the three other branches of government and the Supreme Court announced that "not even the Pennsylvania Supreme Court possesses power to review the findings or actions of a nonjudicial administrative board where such judgment of proceeding is not judicial in nature. The acts are so loosely drawn that no provision is made for appeals."

Perhaps that's why laws are made, namely so that nobody can understand them.

Intervention

It seems ridiculous to say that the United States cannot intervene in Cuban affairs when the country has intervened all over the world beginning with China and continuing in Africa and other places in Asia. We declined to intervene in Hungary but we are violently intervening in the Congo; we refuse to intervene in Cuba but we violently intervene in the Dominican Republic.

This inconsistency of policy, President Kennedy inherited from his predecessors who have pursued a double standard, namely that they know how to support a "good" dictator and that they recognize by odor or something a bad dictator.

It has worked out historically that they have consistently intervened from Mao Tse-tung in China to present situation in Laos, Katanga, the Dominican Republic and almost anywhere one looks.

If intervention is a fixed American policy, let us describe it and be consistent about it. And the description should be made by the President or the Secretary of State and not by novices in the lower ranks of the State Department or by Congressmen and Senators who buzz around the world issuing pronouncements to the press.

This looseness of statement and activity is not beneficial to the United States because there is no consistency of policy. If we take Cuba as an example, the policy concerning that country was manufactured by two minor officials, Roy Rubottom and William Wieleland, during the Eisenhower Administration.

The errors of these two are so notorious that they are becoming a major political question now under Congressional investigation. Every effort that is being made to avoid a public hearing of Wieleland only creates more controversy and will undoubtedly lead to a political scandal.

Considering the serious problems that face the President and the Secretary of State, neither should be burdened with the little scandals that arise out of the manoeuvres of lower officials to manipulate policy by day by day action.

It is natural for insecure men to seek power and to grow upon it, but the country ought not to be burdened by such trivialities which grow into nuisances.

The only way to safeguard the United States from such situations is to form policy at the very top and to insist that all secondary officials conform to major decisions; that those in secondary offices who are by doctrine or emotions incapable of conforming to top decisions be summarily dismissed.

After all, the people hold the President responsible and they do not expect him to pass the buck or to be burdened by those who take advantage of the current arrangements under the law.

For instance, William Wieleland actually cannot be sent abroad because he is under investigation by a Congressional Committee; the State Department cannot quite fire him because he is a Foreign Service Officer and has tenure; it is not likely that he can be appointed to a foreign post because his record is too damaging. Therefore, he is being used in the reorganization of the security section of the State Department which investigated him.

No matter how favorably one seeks to be to Wieleland, the effects of his activities regarding Cuba have not been beneficial to the United States. The best that can be said for him is that his judgment helped to put Castro in power. But he was never appointed to a position which gave him such authority.

Authority must be centered in the loftiest positions of government if there is not to be confusion. So far as foreign policy is concerned, only the President may under the Constitution conduct the foreign policy of the United States with the Secretary of State as an aid.

It is true that as the world has become complicated—so complicated that the United Nations now has 104 members—the task is more complex than it was when George Washington and Thomas Jefferson held the positions which are now the responsibility of John F. Kennedy and Dean Rusk. Nevertheless, the principles of operation are unchanged.

In the Cuban situation, a newly appointed ambassador was not prepared for his post by the President or the Secretary of State or even the Under Secretary of State but by a newspaper correspondent who was assumed to have special information.

The error is in the perpetual shifting of authority lower and lower until responsibility is fixed nowhere. An ambassador is presumed to represent a President not an underling.

The Pennsylvania Story

Interesting 'First' In Legislature

HARRISBURG — Reporter's Notebook:

Legislative Jottings — When Pennsylvania's 260 lawmakers gathered in joint session to hear the Governor open the 1962 legislative session, they—and the Governor—chalked up an interesting "first."

It marked the first time any Pennsylvania chief executive ever addressed the opening of four "regular" legislative sessions during a single four-year tenure. . . . Mr. Lawrence has had the distinction of having a "regular" session of the Legislature "in being" during every one of his four years in office.

This of course developed from the approval by the electorate in 1960 of the annual session schedule, as opposed to the older time-honored every-other-year biennial sessions. . . . The first year of Mr. Lawrence's tenure—1959—the Legislature met that year in regular biennial session. . . . The 1960 session was the first under the annual session schedule. . . . Last year's 1961 gathering was the second (but the third session under the Lawrence Administration tenure), while this week's gathering marked the fourth "Lawrence session."

An "Expensive" First — Although the present 1962 legislative session is marked with one "first" after another, one not received with any great acclaim, tooting of horns and bugles or shooting of fireworks, is that involving this aspect of the Governor's proposed budget for the coming fiscal year.

The budget for Pennsylvania for the 12-month period—(general fund budget only, that is)—at $1,000,887,457, is the first to exceed the billion-dollar mark for a single year. . . . Or, as one lawmaker warbled following its unveiling: "This puts us in a class with the best of them!"

(That depends on how you look at it, of course.) It is true that Pennsylvania has had "billion dollar budgets" before—but they've been for two-year biennial periods, not a single year. . . . The new billion dollar-plus figure is interesting and in actuality is only "slightly" above the current fiscal year's budgetary figure of $997,639,210 but there is a big "but" involved. . . . The near-billion dollar budget figure for this year is for a 13-month year not the 12-month fiscal year upcoming and for which the billion-dollar-plus offering has been made. . . . (The 13-month fiscal year was adopted last year so that future fiscal years could coincide with federal fiscal years which start July 1.)

"We Told You So"—Republican anti-administration lawmakers are in a boil, and this week were growling ominously and irately as they heard the Governor say that his administration would wind up the current fiscal year with a near $9 million "surplus."

What had minority-ridden GOPsters hopping mad was their contention all along that $8 million was available from present funds for restoration of school subsidies for some 2000 local school districts—school subsidy losses brought about by new market values certified by the State Tax Equalization Board last year.

It was the staunchly Republican-supported "freeze clause" amendment to the general appropriation bill of 1961 that would have eliminated school districts receiving subsidies lower than previously—that drew a Lawrence veto because of insufficient funds. . . . GOP lawmakers have been clamoring over the point ever since then. . . . Indications are now—somewhat paradoxically—perhaps—that this very "surplus" may become the "achilles' heel" for Pennsylvania Democrats in this election year, rather than the tidy campaign point in which a surplus is usually viewed.

The Part That Nettled—Lawmakers on both sides of the aisle were somewhat nettled and irked this week by one part of the Governor's speech to the opening session, when he said: "There is no reason on earth why these deliberations cannot be conducted and the necessary decisions made within the next two months. By doing that, this session can be concluded by March 1st."

Snapped one legislative leader: "Confound it, now the executive branch is not only trying to tell us what we should and should not do, but the Governor also wants to tell us how and when we should finish our own business!"

The March of Dimes, a surge of small change which helped beat the once dreaded disease—infantile paralysis is embarked on a new adventure.

This year the foundation which piled up enough 10 cent pieces to whip polio has set its sights on conquering birth defect diseases and arthritis.

Like in the past the nationally organized group is just as determined to wipe out the two aforementioned troublespots which has plagued society since time began.

BUT it is only through our generosity that great strides can be made in these two particular fields of endeavor. To be sure dimes here and there help. However, dimes from all of us will make the task easier and much quicker.

This month Monroe County's phase of the March of Dimes is in bloom. Led by Pete Wyckoff and Jerry Shanley Jr., the forces of the county hope to get a dime or more from every person within the confines of the county.

If ever an organization has the ideal success background for drives than the March of Dimes has, Polio's conquest was by Dr. Jonas Salk is about the best publicity an organization can receive, especially when it used public funds to reach its ultimate goal.

Now with birth defect diseases and arthritis occupying the minds of the foundation's leaders, it shouldn't be too hard to impress the donors to "Remember Polio" and set up a much deeper plunge into their always open grateful pockets.

There are many problems we are asked to help alleviate with our cash. None of the campaigns have felt prey to failure only because you and yours have seen to it—with hard-earned dollars—that their and theirs have a chance at life on near equal footing.

This month we again get the opportunity to join in a fight. This one is aimed at a defeating birth defects and arthritis. Brother and sister, can you spare a dime?

The Allen-Scott Report

Senate Investigates 'Katanga Lobby'

Washington, January 4 — The State Department's face is going to be a bright "red" before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee finishes its investigation of the "Katanga Lobby."

The embarrassment is going to start next week when the subcommittee hears testimony that the State Department once thought so highly of Michael Streulens, the lobby's chief spokesman in the U. S., that it sent him on a secret mission to the Congo.

The 33-year-old former Belgian civil servant, whose visa to the U. S. has been invalidated, is now the main target of the State Department's biggest guns for his pro-Katanga activities here.

Streulens, who will make public his amazing story when he testifies on January 10, already has briefed the subcommittee in private on the role he undertook for the State Department.

He told the Senators that one of Secretary of State Rusk's top aides visited him last August and solicited his services to mediate the differences between President Moise Tshombe, of Katanga, and Congo's Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Under secret instructions to arrange for an Ashombe-Adoula meeting, Streulens left New York on August 2 to fly to the Congo. The State Department furnished Streulens his transportation and made the arrangements for him to enter the Congo under the guise of a U. S. immigration official.

On arriving in Leopoldville, Streulens went immediately to the U. N. headquarters there where he briefed Dr. Sture C. Linner, the United Nations chief officer in the Congo, on his U. S. mission.

Streulens then called President Tshombe, who said he was agreeable to meet with Premier Adoula at any location other than Leopoldville. Tshombe said a conference in the Congo Capitol was out of the question because the last time he had showed up there Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko had arrested him and had him thrown into jail and neither the U. N. nor the U. S. had protested his seizure.

When this message was relayed to Dr. Linner, the Chief U. N. officer took the uncompromising stand that if Tshombe wouldn't meet with Adoula in Leopoldville there would be no conference. Tshombe balked at this mandate.

Unable to break the deadlock, Streulens then flew back to the U. S. on August 5, reporting to the State Department that his mission had not been successful.

"All my efforts were for conciliation, not for division," Streulens told the Senators in his private meeting with them. "I'm completely surprised and dumbfounded at the way the State Department has tried to discredit me."

In carrying out his secret mission for the U. S., Streulens even spent some of the $140,000 that Carl T. Rowan, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs, accused him of "spreading around . . . to help in dispensing a string of myths and a stream of misinformation about Katanga and the Congo."

Trojan Horse — The Senators are also investigating another very ominous development in the Congo.

This is the unannounced decision by Dr. Linner, with Soviet and Indian backing, to put the military forces of Communist Vice-Premier Gizenga under the U. N. Command.

Under this plan, these pro-Communist units would later be given a leading role in a new Congo Army. The Gizenga forces, partially equipped with Soviet-made weapons and filled with Kremlin agents, number 5,000.

According to a U. S. military intelligence report, the stage for this move was set by Dr. Linner when he put one thousand soldiers of the Congolese National Army under the U. N. Command. These units, which also will be assigned to the new Congo Army, came from the forces of General Joseph Mobutu.

Establishment of this "condition Army" has been discussed by U. N. officials in the Congo with U. S. Ambassador Edmund Gullion, who reportedly is supporting such an arrangement.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, in a report to the President, are on record against permitting any of Communist Gizenga's forces in a reorganized "Congo Army."

Congo Notes — Critics of U. S. Ambassador Gullion's Congo policies have been put on notice that President Kennedy is supporting him all the way. This was revealed recently by no one less than Jacqueline Kennedy. The President's wife told a group of congressional friends that "Last night we had dinner alone and all that Jack talked about was Ed Gullion and what a wonderful job he was doing in the Congo. Jack told me how the Republicans had put him in the deep freeze for eight years." . . . Senator Thomas Dodd, D. Conn., a member of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, has sent information to President Kennedy showing that both Antoine Gizenga, the Vice Premier of the new coalition government in the Congo, and Christopher Gizenga, who holds complete police power in the Congo, are Prague-trained Communists. Dodd's memorandum also warns that Egidio Bocheley-Davidson, who has been appointed Administrator of Katanga Province by Prime Minister Adoula is "an agent of the Soviet secret police." . . . The Congo, which became independent on June 30, 1960, is the most valuable piece of real estate on earth. Its soil contains diamonds, tin, copper, zinc, gold, silver, manganese, tungsten, cobalt, radium, uranium and other minerals and metals. Perhaps nowhere else in the world in recent years has such a distraught population—13 million in an area one-fourth the size of the U. S.—struggled so hard to survive or divide as a nation on ground with so much natural wealth.

Change Of Life In A Single Day!

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

Imagine! Change of life in a few hours—and before her 25th birthday, too!

Mrs. M. knows. Surgeons had to remove her ailing womb and ovaries. And w h a m o!—the change!

Sensing the loss of female hormone production, her pituitary gland went wild. It poured rivers of chemicals into the circulation to whip up ovary activity.

The pituitary didn't know that both ovaries were gone. Those pituitary chemicals triggered hot flushes, cold sweats and chills. During night-time flushes, Mrs. M. would kick off her blankets and wake up shivering! A suffocating feeling would drive her to an open window for fresh air.

The sudden change hit faster and harder than ordinary change of life.

Moody Worriers Often the doctor can replace those missing hormones to tide you over. But that's not enough for moody worriers. Just because she couldn't have babies, Mrs. M. felt twice her age!

Fears and flushes can leave you dizzy, lightheaded and spinning, with nerves all jangled.

A thinking doctor will cool those flushes with hormones and calm your frenzy. He may talk about those three wonderful children you already have. Or how you can find tots and toddlers that need new parents.

Compensating Activities If you must create, write or draw posters. Think up new ideas for your church or community. You can still give birth to some spanking-new fund-raising plan for your pet drive.

The thinking doctor will help you talk out your blues and fears. In the operating room, he'll remember which organ you need for a normal life. He'll look carefully before deciding which ones must come out. Then he can tailor the operation to both needs.

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Art Of Seeing

By Marcia Clapp

HAVE YOU ever watched the endlessly changing pattern of waves? Or looked at the powerful shapes of rocks? Does this picture, suggesting the conflict of the surf with the rocks, symbolize the vast energies of nature in the midst of which man is precariously balanced?

Winslow Homer, who was born in Boston in 1836, spent many years of his artistic life observing and painting the sea. Here he has caught the wild waves pounding against the rocks. His use of the strong diagonal line of the dark rocks against the brilliant light of the wave catches our attention at the left side. Our eyes are led across the top of the incoming wave to the dark water at the right returning to the dark rocks at the bottom.

A skillful painter like Homer knew how to lead the eye by careful placement of light and dark as well as by directional lines.

Homer had no formal training until he was apprenticed to a lithographer. Later in 1859 he attended the National Academy of Design in New York. He illustrated the Civil War for Harper's magazine and his first oil painting in 1861 was the result of his war sketches.

His naturalistic genre scenes of farm life and children in New England settings became popular. Before his trip to England in 1881 he was already a well known illustrator of books and magazines.

Became Basis

In England he concentrated on drawings and watercolors of the sea which later became the basis for many oils and etchings. After 1898 almost every winter was spent in the West Indies or Florida, resulting in dramatic paintings of rescues at sea and the struggle of man against the forces of nature, which won him fame as one of America's leading painters.

The masculine vigor of his work did not fit the academic taste of the public and he became a recluse both artistically and personally at Prout's Neck, in Maine. Before his death in 1910 he wrote to his brother: "The life that I have chosen gives me my full hours of enjoyment for the balance of my life. The sun will not rise, or set, without my notice, and thanks."

Top Priority!

That's A Company

By Tony Cesare
Daily Record Reporter

TOP PRIORITY: That has been the label attached to the 28th Division, Pennsylvania National Guards.

The famed Keystone Division, of which Company "A" of East Stroudsburg is a part, has gained this distinguished reputation since the time of George Washington.

Because of the current crisis in Berlin, the 28th Division has been given "top priority" rating which signifies that the division will play an instrumental part in America's actions . . . if any develops. If not, it will continue to maintain its peacetime roles.

Company "A" 1st Battle Group, 109th Infantry has been under intensified training since the latter part of 1961.

It currently conducts drills every other Monday night and two Sundays each month. The company meets weekly every Monday night at East Stroudsburg Armory, Washington St.

But even the impending problem in Berlin is nothing new for the unit. Down through the years, the 28th has participated in every conflict in which the United States has been involved.

Its historical battle credits read like a history book on wars. Take for example the War of Spanish Succession, 1747; the French and Indian War of 1812; the Mexican War at Vera Cruz, and Cerro Gordo in 1846.

Then came the Civil War with battles at Cold Harbor, Petersburg and Spottsylvania, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Vicksburg, Appomattox and others.

Right Down Line

In 1898 they fought in the Spanish-American War; later was World War I at Aisne-Marne, Disen-Marne, Lorraine, Meuse-Argonne, Ypres-Lys, among a few battle areas.

In World War I, the division became known as the "Iron Division" because of its ability to withstand all the enemy could offer.

Then World War II at France again this time at Normandy, Northern France, The Rhineland, Ardennes and Central Europe.

Even after the war was concluded, the guardsmen became a part of the Army of Occupation in 1945.

When Korea erupted, the 28th was there. This time it was part of the NATO forces.

As part of its duties in 1950, the local company aided in training troops at Camp Atterbury, Indiana for replacements. In Europe, the division troops were stationed at Augsburg, Leipin, and Ulm. Division headquarters were at Goepingen, Germany which formulated plans for Europe's defense.

Now a new crisis is arising. But — as always — the 28th stands ready to participate.

Serving in peace and war, the colors of the gallant 28th Pennsylvania Division have been awarded

Dear Abby: Just how much affection is it proper to display in public?

Someone in our family married an Irish girl. She thought Americans were cold. She always sat with, or walked with, her arms around her husband. She kissed him in company, in the streets, stores, etc. Not just quick little pecks, but the long, lingering movie-style kisses.

In company, they sit cuddled up next to each other like a pair of lovebirds. He is 43 and she is 35. Wouldn't you say they are old enough to know better? When they were newlyweds, folks would say, "Aren't they cute?" Now they think it is downright disgusting. What do you think?

Commanded By Bessoir
Heading Company "A" of East Stroudsburg are First Lt. Robert M. Bessoir of Scranton, company commander; Lt. George Brodhead of Stroudsburg; First Lt. Ronald Coskio of Carbondale; Second Lt. James Macvay of Clarks Summit; Second Lt. John Yanchek of Simpson and First Sgt. Vincent Marek of Tannersville.

Capt. Gerald Shanley of Stroudsburg is the immediate past company commander. In addition to the officers, the organization includes 120 enlisted personnel from the area.

The East Stroudsburg guardsmen join seven other units from northeastern Pennsylvania in the division. The others hail from Headquarters Company, Scranton; Combat Support Co., West Pittston; Company B, Scranton; Company C, Scranton; Second Rifle Platoon and Weapons Platoon, Company D, Carbondale; Company E, of Carbondale.

MORA Club Plans For New Year

PLANS FOR THE coming year were discussed at Wednesday's meeting of the MORA Club at the YMCA.

The club quartet sang several numbers and President Al Sommer and Program Chairman Percy Marvin announced an educational program will be held at the Jan. 10 meeting.

E. H. Werkheiser, secretary, was instructed to extend the club's sympathy to the Bethlehem MORA Club in the death of F. G. Romig, a member of the club who visited here.

Arthur M. Troegner, past president, read a letter from the club's foster child in Korea and displayed holiday cards sent by the youth.

A film on the growth and present status of the Niagara Falls hydro-electric power project was shown.

Car Sales To Rise

NEW YORK (AP)—Hans Larsson, president of Volvo Import, Inc., U. S. importer of the Swedish made Volvo automobile, predicted importer car sales would exceed 400,000 this year. The 1961 total was about 385,000.

He said Volvo expects to sell about 14,000 units in this country.

Lancaster Cattle

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Cattle 23.00; good and choice feeder steers 23.00-26.50. Hogs 25; barrows and sows 19.00. Calves and sheep; not enough to establish a market.

I am 19. Too young to be messing up my life. I was going with a very nice boy for a long time, and I planned to marry him. I gave him ALL my love. Now he's gone, and I hate myself. I am sorry, and I've learned a lesson, but what good is it now?

Abby, please print this letter. Any girl who is old enough to read is old enough to understand it. And if just one girl benefits from my mistake, it is worth your trouble.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Gil Dunning didn't exactly kill my column for today out between him and the "Prayer for the Middle Aged" which Jack Bickel read during his talk at Dutch Treat they sure took the starch out of it. One item of the prayer, all of which seemed to be directed directly at me, was "Seal my lips on my aches and pains. They are increasing as the years go by."

Which pretty well shut my mouth about how I was suffering from falling down the whole flight of stairs at home. Other people can fall on the ice and snow, and suffer sprained ankles or visible scratches. I'm the only one who in the slipperiest month of the year slides down inside steps bruising parts of my anatomy which even I can't see, let alone get sympathy from others.

Suffering in unwonted silence, I heard a lot of interesting things, however. In answer to the question about whether Jack Bickel minded being introduced always as Fredric March's brother (the March, incidentally, comes from Marcher which is Jack Bickel's middle name), he explained he was used to it; his wife's an author, so for variety he can be Mary Bickel's husband.

I also learned more about Mr. and Mrs. Hal Bates. They've been summer residents at Paradise Falls Lutheran Assn. for many years but have just recently moved fulltime from Cranford to Mount Pocono. She went to Carnegie Tech. Hal, who started out as an actor in Hollywood, switched to inventing and is still president of the company.

So that worked out very well. I'm not so sure about how another section of the prayer would work out. "Keep me from getting loquacious and particularly from the fatal habit of thinking I must say something on every subject and on every occasion." I just might dry up altogether and then what would you do? "Live and Have Fun," probably, as the man said.

First Lady Tops Lists Of Best-Dressed

By Joy Miller
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy again has been elected the world's best-dressed woman. To the surprise of practically no one, the First Lady for the second year tops the best-dressed list issued Thursday by the New York couture group which conducts the annual poll.

More than 2,000 fashion experts, designers and editors throughout the world cast ballots from which a committee of style authorities compiled the official 1961 list of 12 women.

The President's wife, who the committee said had inaugurated the "Kennedy era of young elegance," was joined on the list this year by her younger sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and a friend, Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, neighbors of the Kennedys at Palm Beach.

Runnerup to Mrs. Kennedy, who won by a landslide in the popular vote, was Mexican-born Mrs. Loe Guinness of Paris and Palm Beach. Mrs. Guinness, a grandmother with flair, frequently adorns best-dressed lists and has been called by some fashion publications "the most elegant woman in the world," and, by one, "the ultimate."

Other top honors went to Mrs. Norman K. Winston of New York and Paris and actress Audrey Hepburn, who were elected to the Fashion Hall of Fame. Only women who have been listed annually for more than three consecutive years are eligible.

Boastfully chic Miss Hepburn, who is Mrs. Mel Ferrer offscreen, is familiar to moviegoers. Brunette Mrs. Winston, the former Rosita Halphen of Oklahoma, part Cherokee Indian, is married to an international real estate man.

The complete list of the 12 best-dressed women of 1961: Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the President.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"The friendly store"

A.B. Wyckoff
STRONDSBURG, PA.

Elegant in coat of mink and black velvet toque, Mrs. Irving Foltz stops to chat in our center aisle, and we are joined by two other equally fashion conscious ladies—Mrs. Edward Kenney, all in brown, and Mrs. Frank Maguire in black coat with white mink collar and white fur hat. But guess what our conversation was about! Not clothes, or even the weather—but JURY DUTY. I was bemoaning the fact I'd never been called but might find it interesting; they said they had served, and it isn't at all—it's just enlightening—sometimes in a rather sordid way. . . . "Baby" talk is the most popular language being used at Wyckoff's right now, with plenty of bouncing-fine reasons. Jane Everett, recently of our Gift Wrap Center, whose husband, Earl, is a former Sears employee, are parents of a girl, Pearl Walter, until recently our Cosmetic buyer, with husband Bill, has welcomed a son, William Norman, to join Paula and Carla. I notice that babies do help business! Bill Walter was in the store buying soaps and things for Pearl, who was leaving the hospital Tuesday afternoon, and Marge Hunt of Stationery, the mother of Janie Everett, was buying Johnson and Johnson products in our Infants department. She admitted that being a grandmother is such a welcome and novel experience she could hardly concentrate on ringing up sales and taking stock. . . . Walking into WVPO the other morning I was greeted with, "Your store certainly has some mighty good looking brocade dresses in this morning's ad, for only 7.98." Those dresses are lovely if you like brocade—and I believe most women do. Cora Albertson also tells me she has a big, new shipment of cotton daytime dresses for Spring that are Simply Smart (that's both their name AND their description) by the makers of Simplicity frocks. In sizes 14 1/2 to 24 1/2 and 12 to 20, these indispensable little dresses are 3.98. A woman just can't have too many, and here at Wyckoff's she has five styles from which to choose, all in fresh, bright florals or geometrics. . . . A note arrives from the distinguished primitive painter, Roy Danford Parker, of Middletown, N. Y., wishing me a Happy New Year and asking for the dates of our Wyckoff Art Show. Mr. Parker will probably exhibit once again this year, which is good news. Most of you do know, I believe, that the show runs from January 13 to 23rd, and both amateur and professional artists are invited to enter two original paintings, properly framed and wired for hanging.

For years I have known Mrs. Robert Stadden, whom I first met when I was a social news reporter and she was prominent in local and state Garden Club activities. I am sure she does not remember me, but I frequently see her shopping Wyckoff's accompanied by Mr. Stadden, a genial, friendly man.

Last Wednesday, Mr. Stadden visited Wyckoff's with a most unique and valuable possession—a buffalo robe, the reverse side of which is covered with a painting done by an American Indian approximately 110 years ago. Mr. Stadden inherited it from his father, to whom it was given by a member of the tribe, perhaps the artist himself. In fading, but still pleasing colors, made from minerals and clays no doubt, the story of a hunt is portrayed. There are symbols of universe, sun and moon, as well as Indian braves, their women carrying papooses, a buffalo, canoe, etc.

Mr. Stadden tells us there are only about three of these authentically painted buffalo robes registered, and their value is somewhere between 5-and-10 thousand dollars. He is going to submit this cherished possession to the State Museum in Phoenix, Arizona, but I am happy we had the opportunity to see it first.

Didn't I tell you there's ALWAYS something interesting going on at Wyckoff's?

Steward Teaches German

SFC Werner H. Theissen, mess steward of the 210th Signal Company stationed at the U. S. Army Signal Corps depot, Tobyhanna, makes quite a transition in his off-duty hours, going from the kitchen to the head of a foreign language class.

A native of Germany, Theissen is engaged in teaching spoken German to 50 of his fellow soldiers, a majority of whom are members of the 972nd Signal Battalion. His pupils include 15 officers as well as 35 enlisted men of various grades.

The purpose of the class, which is offered by the United States Armed Forces Institute through the post education office, is to provide the men with a general knowledge of spoken German, which would come in handy if they ever should be assigned to overseas duty in Germany.

Theissen's knowledge of German, for the most part, was acquired in this country. He was born in Cologne, Germany, but his parents migrated to the United States when he was just four years old. He heard the native language spoken at home, and in addition studied it for four years while in high school.

During his lengthy tour of duty with the Army, Theissen has never served in Germany. He did, however, pay a short visit to that country shortly before World War II.

Yule Decorations Getting Spotty In Barrett Township

By PAT WILLIAMS
BARRETT — Christmas decorations become spotty as residents lost the battle against falling tree needles and give up. Things look bare for a while, but with all the sleep to be caught up, not too many people are going to miss the lights until February and then it will be too late.

One thing that will be missed though is the tree from the landscaping in the front yard of the Raymond Loeb home. The day after deer season opened, it disappeared. Someone certainly got a lovely Christmas tree.

And Ray, with his son Carl, is one of those people who work quietly in the background to make things run smoothly. But, the "good guys" always win, even if, in this case, the happy ending may not happen before the last commercial.

Monday night, anyone left at home will be the cat since there are more meetings listed than people to attend. There must be a moral there, but it won't be until Tuesday morning that anybody thinks of it. The coming week really belongs to the children. They enjoy the holidays and now they have a full week of getting back into the swing of school activities with the scene brightened by the myriad colors and fabrics of the clothing that was left under the tree.

As soon as all the holiday debris has been cleared away, maybe the mental cobwebs will go too and Barrett adults will have a chance to go back to house keeping.

It is a trying time for those New Year Resolutions . . . trying to keep them in the face of all those tree needles. Best take a moment out to have a cup of coffee in an uncluttered corner to get back a sense of perspective or maybe mend the battered sense of humor. January has a pile of weather tricks up its sleeve and without a sense of humor, it can get pretty grey.

Dietzel Still Not Talking But It Looks Bad For LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Paul Dietzel refused to tip his hand Thursday night on whether he would leave Louisiana State for the head football coaching job at West Point.

Dietzel appeared on a Baton Rouge television program and would say only that his decision to accept or reject a reported offer from West Point would be based on "what I feel is best personally, for myself and my family."

"Any decision will not be something I jumped at," he continued. "It will be something I have thought over many hours and many days."

Like Swan Song

But the 15-minute interview sounded much like a swan song for the 38-year-old former West Point assistant who guided LSU to the national championship in 1958 and three bowl appearances in the last four years.

He declined to speculate on Friday's meeting of the LSU board of supervisors, ostensibly called to clarify Dietzel's position on whether he will ask for release from the remaining four years of his $18,500 per year contract.

He told his audience he had a year left on his contract at Army when LSU offered him the top job with the Tigers.

LSU officials asked the then Army coach, Col. Earl (Red) Black, if Army would release him and Dietzel said that Black's contention was that he would not stand in Dietzel's way if he wanted to leave.

He said he brought this point out because much has been said about his jumping the contract he has with LSU.

Dietzel said Friday's session of the board was "an official function of the university and any comment about it should come from the board chairman, not from me."

Former Boxer Found Dead

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Former boxer John Patrick (Patsy) Brannigan, 75, was found dead Thursday along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks in suburban Bellevue. He apparently had been struck by a train.

Brannigan started boxing when he was 15 and kept at it more than 25 years. He fought more than 400 bouts in the bantamweight, featherweight and lightweight divisions.

After his fighting days ended, Patsy was an elevator operator. He retired in 1948 and began training young fighters.

Lakers Can't Use Baylor

NEW YORK (AP)—Owners of the National Basketball Association declined Thursday to permit Los Angeles to use soldier Elgin Baylor next Sunday against the Boston Celtics in a regular NBA game.

Maurice Podoloff, the NBA president, in announcing the owners in a telegraphic poll had rejected the Lakers' request, said the whole matter of using servicemen in NBA play will be discussed at the owners' meeting in St. Louis Jan. 16.

Baylor was recently called to Army service from the Lakers.

Buffalo Fires Buster Ramsey

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Gerard (Buster) Ramsey was fired Thursday as head coach of the Buffalo Bills in the American Football League.

The former All-America guard from William & Mary, first man hired when the Bills were organized two years ago, compiled a 11-16-1 record in two years of championship play.

Golf Widow Dies

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP)—Funeral services were held Thursday for Josephine Espinosa, widow of golfer Al Espinosa, who died Tuesday of leukemia after a brief illness. Espinosa died five years ago Thursday.

Nevada End Signs

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Nevada end Jim Whitaker has signed with the Oakland Raiders of the American Football League, the club announced Thursday.

Minors After Tie-Ups With Major Teams

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Officials from four minor leagues met Thursday with major league farm directors to discuss franchise problems.

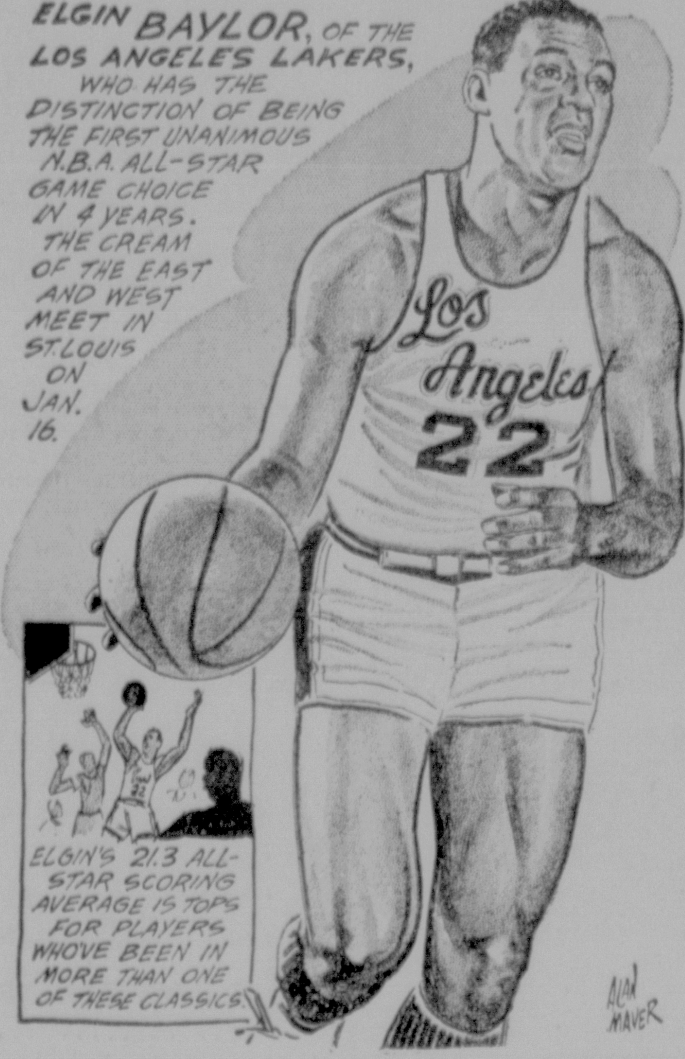

Representatives from 17 major league clubs attended the meeting which wound up late in the afternoon with no firm decisions having been reached on any of the league's problems.

Minor league boss George M. Trautman, who presided, called the meeting entirely exploratory. Before the meeting, a spokesman for Trautman said it will be up to the clubs in the respective leagues to make the final decision on their individual problems.

The leagues involved, the Southern Association, the Three-I, the New York-Pennsylvania, the Western Carolina and the Sophomore leagues are seeking major league working agreements to round out their circuits.

The meeting is one of four regular sessions conducted annually by the minors.

Roger Stops For Award On Way To Salary Talks

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Home running Roger Maris arrived at his last stop Thursday before heading into New York to renew contract negotiations with the Yankees.

Maris, reportedly aiming for a 1962 salary of $75,000, came to Milwaukee to receive a trophy as the Associated Press male athlete of the year for 1961.

He and track star Wilma Rudolph Ward, the AP woman athlete of the year, will receive their trophies at a ceremony at the Milwaukee Civic Center.

No Meeting

The 27-year-old Yankee slugger told newsmen, prior to the dinner, that he had no meeting scheduled but was going to New York Friday and hoped to arrange a conference with the ball club management.

A reporter asked Maris if the expansion of the American League to 10 clubs last season helped him smash Babe Ruth's record with 61 homers. The Bambino had 60 in eight fewer games.

"No," said Maris, "it just takes a lot of luck. I was the luckiest guy in the world."

Maris and Mrs. Ward—a winner of the AP poll for the second straight year—easily outdistanced all competition in the 1961 balloting.

Wilma, the hurrying Tennessee State star, swept the 1960 poll after a triple triumph in the Olympic Games. Record-shattering performances—11.2 seconds in the 100 meters at Stuttgart, and 6.8 in the indoor 60-yard dash—helped her win this year's AP poll.

The willowy runner told an interviewer upon her arrival here that she is determined to repeat her Olympic triumphs in 1964.

Girl Caddy Teacher Won't Frown On Tight Sweaters

NEW YORK (AP)—A pretty girl to tote your golf clubs. Why not says Françoise Pellagrino Autiero, the petite girl caddy from France who has crossed the Atlantic to show American golfers what they have been missing.

"Golf is a game played for enjoyment," 23-year-old Françoise said Thursday. "and a girl caddy can make it much more pleasant."

"She is gentler. She has more patience. She has more understanding. She handles the man in the home. Why can't she handle him better on the golf course?"

Françoise has been caddy for seven years at the swank Biot Club in Antibes, France, her hometown, and she has lugged clubs for such celebrities as Joseph Kennedy, the President's father; the duke of Windsor, Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra.

To Teach Girls

She was brought to the United States specifically to instruct a group of girl caddies hired by the new Doral Hotel and Country Club in Miami, Fla.

At the Miami club, a girl caddy will receive $6 for each 18-hole round. It's possible to do two rounds a day.

The French girl said she would not frown on makeup and eye-catching wearing apparel, such as tight-fitting sweaters and shorts, but added: "We must be careful not to steal the golfer's mind from his game."

Françoise herself is 5 feet 3 with her 120 pounds all in the right places.

"In France," said Françoise, "the men are more interested in their golf than in their women."

Phillies Sign Three Rookies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies Thursday announced the signing of second baseman Richie Allen, catcher Bob Lippis and righthander Bruce Gruber.

Allen, 19, a native of Wampum, Pa., was with Twin Falls in the Pioneer League in 1961. Lippis, 23, played with Chattanooga in the Southern Association while Grube, 19, pitched for Williamsport in the Eastern League.

DA Charges Pair Dumped 1960 Games Against Terps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS NEW YORK (AP)—The widespread basketball fix scandals were reopened Thursday with the arrest of a New York trucking firm employee charged with trying to bribe two North Carolina State players nearly two years ago.

The district attorney's office said Paul Walker, 30, was arrested on a fugitive's warrant at the request of North Carolina authorities.

Walker was charged with conspiring with Joseph Green, a convicted fixer, to bribe the NC State players to shave points in a game Feb. 13, 1960 against the University of Maryland.

Barely Wins

N.C. State, a strong favorite, barely won the game 48-46. Green, now in jail in New York City, already had been indicted by a Wake County grand jury in Raleigh, N.C., on charges of trying to rig the game.

He was accused of giving Stanley Newierowski of Brooklyn, captain of the 1960-61 N.C. State team, and teammate Don Gallagher of Binghamton, N.Y., $1,250 each to fix the Maryland game. Walker allegedly is involved in this transaction.

The arrest was significant only in that it added another name to the mushrooming gambling scandal which already has involved 37 players from 22 colleges and 48 specific games.

Giant Web

This has overshadowed the infamous 1951 scandals which brought 33 players from seven colleges into the giant web.

Green previously had been indicted by a Wake County grand jury along with five other men on bribery charges in connection with several games.

The district attorney office said the bribes offered the two N.C. State players were accepted and the contract was fulfilled since N.C. State's victory fell below the point spread.

No details were given on how the bribes were made. However, it was learned that Walker had connection with men with money and Green acted as an intermediary with the players.

Bears, Cards Head Local Cage Card

POCONO Mountain and Pleasant Valley hold the area basketball spotlight tonight, as the two teams clash in the first of a home and home series.

Tonight's game sends the winless Bears to the Cards' court.

In other area games, Stroud Union opens its Lehigh Valley League season by hosting Cataquaqua, Pen Argyl is at Bangor in a Lehigh-Northampton League game, East Stroudsburg is at Hellertown for a league contest and Delaware Valley goes to Honesdale and Southern Wayne entertains North Pocono in Wayne County League games.

Pleasant Valley has lost eight in a row, while Pocono, perhaps the top team in the area, is 6-2, losing to Southern Wayne and Scranton Prep.

Pocono won its last out, edging Nesquehoning, while Pleasant Valley was whipped by East Stroudsburg.

Stroud Union is riding a one-game winning streak but faces one of its toughest games tonight. The Rough Riders have won the league title two years in a row and although the club has started poorly this season, it is still one of the favorites to cop the loop crown.

Pen Argyl and Bangor are on a win one, lose one kick but the clubs are more than evenly matched for tonight's go. Both teams were defeated in their league openers Tuesday.

Delaware Valley and Southern Wayne are run 1-2 in the Wayne County race, with the Stags a game ahead.

Ragan Wins Low Honors

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., stroked to money-winning honors Thursday in the pro-celebrity event preceding Friday's start of the $55,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

Ragan shot a 6-under-par 65 to win the $500 individual low score and led his team of amateurs to a 56, which gave him $400 more. Ragan had a 31-34-65. He beat out Jack Fleck by two strokes for the individual lead.

The weather was bright and sunny Thursday and the off-rained-out tournament was promised good weather for the weekend.

Play is over the 7,000-yard, par 36-35-71 Rancho Municipal golf course.

Leading pros included South Africa's Gary Player and America's Arnold Palmer, the one-two money winners of the 1961 season.

West Gridders See W. House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The West Football squad interrupted its U.S. Bowl workouts Thursday to take a White House tour.

The East squad will get the same deluxe tour Friday morning and both teams will get a special tour of FBI headquarters.

These are some of the fringe benefits for the 46 players who passed up the cash offers of other bowls for the attractions of the nation's capital.

The all-star game Sunday at D.C. Stadium matches draft choices for the East division of the National Football League against players chosen by the West division. The game will be televised nationally.

Warriors Face Unbeaten Mansfield Saturday Night

MANSFIELD State, one of the nation's outstanding small college basketball teams, opens its Pennsylvania State College Conference basketball season at East Stroudsburg State tomorrow night.

The Mountaineers, of Coach Bill Gibson are unbeaten in non-league games this year, averaging 88.6 points a game. The Mounties' winning margin average this year is 30 points. Last year Mansfield averaged 27.4 points in winning 19 straight games. It was the highest winning margin in the nation.

Gibson lost four key players from last year's team but four members of this year's club have double figure scoring averages and two other players are just a shade below the 10 point mark.

Captain Dick DiBiasi a senior from Monessen is the club's leading scorer with 106 points and a 21 point average. DiBiasi and sophomore Jim Turner share the rebounding lead, each averaging 16 a game.

So far this year, Mansfield has ripped Lycoming 122-64, Gannon 62-55, Lock Haven twice, 71-58 and 88-57 and Geneseo 100-56. Lock Haven is a member of the State College Conference but is in the Western Division. Out of division games are not counted in league standings.

Long Layoff

Mansfield has not played since Dec. 13, when it whipped Geneseo, East Stroudsburg, which has a 3-2 mark and is 1-0 in the conference whipped Shippensburg in its last outing, Dec. 19.

This year's meeting is almost identical to the first Warrior-Mountie game of last year.

It was the first game after the Christmas break and Mansfield had a five game win streak, while East Stroudsburg had lost only to Scranton.

In its last outing, Mansfield had crushed Geneseo 82-37 but before the largest crowd of the year at Normal Hill, Mansfield edged the Warriors 78-71, with the winning margin coming in the final minute. The only conference team that came closer to beating the Mounties last season was Bloomsburg.

But East Stroudsburg didn't fare so well when it went to the Mounties' home grounds. Mansfield won easily, 106-67.

East Stroudsburg tied for second place in the Eastern Division with West Chester, both with 200 ratings. If the Warriors of coach Mort Hochheiser can upset Mansfield, East Stroudsburg would take over first place in the East.

Mansfield is trying to become the first team in the history of conference to complete two straight unbeaten teams.

A Classic Letter

By William A. Doyle

Q. I bought Pure Oil stock at 46 ($16 a share) on the advice of a consultant who supposedly seldom misses. It started to fall, almost immediately. The same thing happened with Central Foundry, which I bought at 32 1/2. I also bought Budd, Allis-Chalmers, North Canadian Oils and Canada Southern Petroleum well above their present price levels. I still own all these stocks.

How can you account for this tendency to buy stocks just before their prices start to nosedive? Also, what makes a person hang on to such stocks? Brokers don't seem to be much help. I have found my own judgement better than their advice on when to buy.

and sell. A. Your letter is a classic. It's typical of those that come in from readers who blame their brokers for every dime they ever lost in the stock market and who pat themselves on the back for every profit they ever made. It's pretty clear that you have only listed your losers—not your winners. If you are going to stick to this attitude, I suggest that you do "stay out of the market."

It would take a psychiatrist to figure out why you hang on to stocks with which you are unhappy. I'm running a newspaper column—not a head shrinker's couch. If you don't like your stocks, sell them.

It's pretty clear that you were attracted to those stocks when they were very popular and were getting a big play. That naturally sent their prices up.

Pure Oil, Central Foundry and Allis-Chalmers are still rated as having varying degrees of good, long-range investment potential. But it's doubtful that you're interested in investments. Admit it. You're a speculator.

Budd is a case of fine old company which has fallen on hard times lately. Right now its common stock must be counted as a speculation.

You were gambling from the start with those two Canadian stocks. The dice just didn't roll right for you.

Q. I am 47 years old and would like to develop some investments over the next 10 years. After a fair amount of study, I have decided that an investment in shares of a mutual fund would be the best thing for me.

However, I do not want to start a "contractual plan" for the accumulation of mutual fund shares. There is always the possibility that I might not be able to complete the payments in such a plan. Isn't there any other way to buy mutual fund shares?

A. Certainly, you can make "lump sum" purchases. That way you get as many shares as your available money will purchase. That is roughly the same method used to buy shares of any stock. Or, you can start a "voluntary" plan to accumulate shares of a mutual fund. This is a somewhat informal method, through which you make periodic purchases. Most people do it on a monthly basis.

Here's the major difference between a voluntary plan and a contractual plan. In a voluntary plan, the commission charges are taken out in equal amount from each payment. If the commission charge is eight percent, then eight percent is deducted from each payment in a voluntary plan. In a contractual plan, the commission charges are heavy in the early payments. In a typical contractual plan, 50 percent of each of the first 12 payments is taken out in commissions. After that, the commissions are much lower.

If you don't complete the payments into the plan, you lose the benefits of the commissions you have pre-paid. That is known as the "front-end load." Contractual plans are banned in a number of states.

High School Chatter

East Stroudsburg

By Charlotte Sittig
THE FIRST day of school in 1962 in East Stroudsburg Joint High School presented many events that indicated a very good time for students during the long Christmas Holiday.

Many new outfits received as Christmas gifts were seen in the halls of the school. The bright colors added to the atmosphere in the halls as pupils from the Shawnee area extended the vacation when the bus for that route broke down. Some boys and girls returned home and came to school the following day. Others found another way to school on that day.

The Junior English pupils were granted an additional day by their teacher, Mrs. Kathryn Bush, to hand in essays on Freedom. In the elective art class, Sandy Mering and Linda Smeltz were the only two in a class of 14 to bring a box, plastic bag and a rag to class with them so they could start projects in ceramics.

Another group that the teacher granted extensions was in the girl's gym class. It seems that most of the girls forgot to bring their uniforms for inspection. Mrs. Lois Fritz, the teacher, granted a one-day delay for the presentation of the gym suits for inspection. It is felt that these incidents were unfortunate and the students realized the mistakes. It is hoped that 1962 will prove there are vast opportunities to grasp.

All of the student assistants at the desk handle books, and some also perform special services for the librarians.

Joellyn McCann and Beatrice Rosand are in charge of the hall display case and the bulletin boards. These are changed frequently to suit seasonal and school themes.

In charge of the circulation statistics, a journal containing the number of books serviced and accounts of the library, is Winifred Weber.

Mending is done by Winifred Weber, Carol Rohaly, and Donna Ayers.

The lettering and printing of the books, that is putting a number on the inside of non-fiction books according to the Dewey Decimal System, is done by Carol Rohaly. Carol says that she is able to letter about 30 books in a 45-minute period.

In charge of the periodical room, the place where out-of-date issues of magazines are put in order and stored, is Gail Johnson and Cheryl Decker.

Gail Johnson is in charge of book procession, that is putting a plastic cover much like a book cover over the original cover to preserve it. Gail says that she can process between 35 and 40 books in a 45-minute period.

The typists are Hildy Schmid, Joyce Umphrey, and Nina Bosard.

The scrap-book, compiled of the school activities taken from The Daily Record is kept by Isabella Mannix.

The mail is sorted and delivered by Mary Lou Hardenstine and Susan Dildine.

This year something new has been added to SUHS's library. It is the Traveling Science Library sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Two cases of fifty books are received every two months after a period of time they are sent on to another school.

Stroud Union

By Georgia Smolyniak
IMAGINE servicing 31,284 books a year! Well, that's the number two librarians and 52 student assistants checked out last year at Stroud Union High School.

Between 200 and 250 books were checked out each day. Along with the servicing of books went the circulating of overdue and reserve book slips, about 50 each day.

All of the student assistants at the desk handle books, and some also perform special services for the librarians.

Street Fighting Erupts In Algiers

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — A short, sharp street battle erupted in a fashionable sector of Algiers yesterday, leaving one European dead and another wounded. Police said the gun fight, which occurred near the official residence of the delegate-general for Algeria, was between members of the antigovernment secret army and European members of a patrol opposing the secret army. At Constantine in eastern Algeria, a Nationalist rebel commando attacked the city's police headquarters last night in an attempt to capture arms and ammunition. One policeman was killed, and two others wounded in the abortive raid. A rebel was also wounded and captured.
